

I own California's largest pet sitting and dog walking company. I benefit from the public's apprehension and fear of traveling with their "children" on airplanes. However, as a pet owner, who over the course of 25 years, has traveled on more than 50 trips with my dogs on airlines, I feel strongly that accountability is imperative in the airline industry. Please remember, that these 4 children are jsut as loved and equally as important a family member as the 2 legged children are. They should be treated and cared for as such while traveling on public airline transportation.

Thank you.
